

*This Ashram has been built for you and through you for the whole of humanity.
Ashram is the mother of science, of true religion; and in the near future it will be the symbol of East-West unity.
May Ananda Ashram be the abode of heaven on earth!*

Shri Brahmananda Sarasvati
(Ramamurti S. Mishra, M.D.)
Founder and Spiritual Director of Ananda Ashram

Shri Brahmananda was dedicated to the integration of Eastern and Western sciences, culture and philosophy, to bring about the full realization of individual and universal peace and harmony in spiritual unity. He had an extensive background in Eastern and Western medicine and was a recognized authority on the science, philosophy and psychology of Yoga and Vedanta. His writings include Fundamentals of Yoga and The Textbook of Yoga Psychology. Shri Brahmananda left his body in 1993. His spiritual presence continues to pervade the Ashram, and his teachings remain as a source of inspiration and guidance for all.

The Yoga Society of New York, incorporated in 1958, is a nonprofit organization whose continuing existence depends entirely on support from members, guests and friends.

Ananda Ashram, the country retreat of the Yoga Society of New York, was founded in 1964 as a universal center for spiritual research, East-West cultural exchange and the living application of the teachings of Yoga and Vedanta. Eighty-five acres of mostly woods and meadows surrounding a beautiful lake and island provide a peaceful and natural environment for meditation, study and healing.
